L., and a host of friends are enjoying the occasion under the shade of the great oaks at historic Marshall Hall, while the members of the organizations affiliated with the Building Trades Council, with the members of their families and friends, are holding a pienic down the Potomac River.

At each of these places the committees in charge have arranged excellent programmes, embracing athletic sports and innocent games for the entertainment and amusement of the friends of the different organizations, and, judging from the past, it can safely be said that those who are participating in the celebration of Labor Day, with the members of organized labor in the District, are spending a most enjoyable day.

At Marshall Hall the athletic sports were commenced with a game of baseball between teams representing the Paper Hangers and Paper Hangers and Paper Hangers and Paper Hangers of America Chien of Greater New York, the Central Labor Union, of Brooklyn, the Greenpoint Lodge of Boilermakers and Iron Ship-ludger, and other unions held picnics. The field sports arranged by the committee in charge of the games for the Building Trades Council also opened with a game of baseball, the opposing teams being composed of members of the Tinners and Painters' organizations.

An excellent programme of Labor Day exercises was arranged to take place in the amphitheatre, commencing at 1:30 p. m. Before that hour the great auditornum was literally packed. The assembling was called to order by E. J. Ratigan, Chairman of the General Committee of Entertainment, who introduced James L. Feeney, President of the Central Labor Union, who delivered the address of welcome to the guests. Mr. Feeney said in part:

pleasure for the organized workers of our city.

"Labor Day is now a legal holiday in thirty-six States, and in every State and Territory of our Union it is celebrated by organized labor in street parades, picnics, mass meetings or river excursions. It is the day that we are called on to celebrate, as it has been instituted in our honor and it affords us an opportunity to rekindle the enthusiasm in our brothers who are worn and weary in labor's struggles for right and justice. It is also the day for congratulation on the continuous growth of new unions and the largely increased membership in all our locals; therefore we should all commemorate the day in a worthy manner and to impress upon the organized as well as the unorganized workers the necessity of more extensive organization so that we

A preliminary meeting was held on February 9, 1951. Twelve organizations were represented and the Central Labor Union of the bistrict of Columbia was organized by the election of a full board of officers.

When our committee fails to adjust the matter, and we find that the employer is antagonistic to our interests we resort to the only weapon that labor commands and the name of the employer or firm is placed on the unfair list and loses the patronage of organization labor and the friends of Inbor.

Address of James L. Feeney at Glen Echo—The Programme at Marshall
Hall—Pienic of Building Trades
(council's Members and Friends.)

Labor Day is being celebrated in gala style by the residents of the District of Columbia today. This is more particularly true with reference to the members of organized workingmen, who, for morths past, have been making elaborate arrangements for the observance of the one day in the year, which is recognized as the wage-carners' national holiday. Not alone in the District, but in every town and city in the country where there is a labor organization the occasion is being generally celebrated. Here, as elsewhere, the wheels of industry are practically at a standstill, only such work being done as tandstill, only such work being done in the face of opposition; they have attained for workingmen material advantages that have developed powerful sympathics among them: they have been
that have developed powerful sympathies among them: they have been
that have developed powerful sympathies among them: they have been
that have developed powerful sympathy to the striking street workers in Pennsylvania, and I am proud to say that part of the proceeds of this day's outing will be sent to President Shaffer to add him to win the battie that he is now waging against the powerful trusts. In conclusion I again express our appreciation and thanks for your attendance and patronage of our outing."

The address of welcome was followed by an address by J. L. Rodier, on "The Power of Our Earnings." At the conciusion of Mr. Rodier's address, over a half hundred little girls, each representing one of the unions affiliated with the Central Labor Union. sang several patriotic Labor Day songs, in chorus. Then came the vandeville performance after which the andience went in to the open air to witness the athletic contests.

travel. The buzz of the saw, the rattle of the hammer, and the swish of the plane are not heard today. The toilers have laid aside their overalls and having donned their best are spending the day in restful amusements with the members of their families and their friends.

Outings to the suburbs of the eity were organized by the three local labor organizations. The trades unionists under the auspices of the Central Labor Union, and their friends, are spending the day at Glen Echo; the Knights of Labor, under the auspices of District Assembly No. 66, K. of L., and a host of friends are enjoying the occasion under the shade of the great oaks at historic Marshall Ball, while the mem-

THE HOSPITAL LAWN FETE.

Feeney said in part:

"Ladies and gentlemen, and friends of labor: I desire to express to the large audience present on behalf of the Central Labor Union of the District of Columbia, our cordial greeting and to bid you welcome to our Labor Day outing.
"Labor Day in the District of Columbia was declared a legal holiday by act of Congress and the bill was signed by the President on June 23, 184. We celebrated the event on the first Monday in September of that year by a large parade, and since then we have looked forward to the day as one of rest or recreation and pleasure for the organized workers of our city.

The lawn festival in aid of Georgetown University Hospital will open tonight at 7:30 o'clock on the campus of that famous institution. There is every reason to expect that a large crowd will be in attendance. The object of the festival is to help the emergency and free wards of this overtaxed hospital and no doubt thousands will delight in helping this cause. # KRETOL

The growing demand for KRETOL during the past four weeks has resulted in largely increased sales of the various preparations of KRETOL, as well as KRETOL in its concentrated form. In the District of Columbia the sales have increased one thousand per cent. The demand for KRETOL at seaside resorts has been remarkable, and next year, it is safe to say, it will be the greatest selling product found. First-class newspaper advertising, which has called the public attention to the extraordinary merits of KRETOL, is largely responsifor the great and ever-increasing demand. Once you study the power and influence of KRETOL you will see the wide range of usefulness to which it is applied with perfect safety. Remember, that it is non-poisonous and harmless to handle. We mention below a few of its many uses.

KRETOL for the person.

Crude, or concentrated, KRETOL is exceedingly efficacious in cases of cuts, scalds, burns, or bruises, It is the greatest antiseptic known. Use a little in the bath always.

Use refined KRETOL for the teeth, as a gargle for sore throat, and to bathe the face and neck-it will soften the skin and improve the complexion.

Use the KRETOL Medicated Soap—the finest soap in the world-for eruptions of the skin, prickly heat, and as a shampoo for the hair. It is an infallible antiseptic; can be used with great success in cases of skin diseases or ulcer. The KRETOL KOLD KREAM can be recommended to anyone; it is made from seven of the best antiseptics known to science, KRETOL forming the most important part in its composition. KRETOL ECZEMA CURE is the best remedy

KRETOL for the house.

Crude KRETOL is the most powerful disinfectant there is, and being non-poisonous, non-acid, and having an agreeable and very slight odor, it is very useful about the house. There is nothing like it for disinfecting sinks, cuspidors, garbage cans, and it is simply invaluable in the sickroom.
